

Egypt's Heartland: Regional Perspectives on Hierakonpolis, Elkab and Edfu

A Colloquium and more

Thursday-Friday July 18-19, 2019

St Antony's College, University of Oxford

Ashmolean Museum, University of Oxford

From the Predynastic to the Ptolemaic period, the sites of Hierakonpolis, Elkab and Edfu exerted profound political, religious and artistic influence on Ancient Egyptian civilization. This colloquium presents the results of current fieldwork exploring the factors that made this triad of sites a powerful force in Egypt's heartland.

Thursday July 18, 2019

9-10AM Registration: Nissan Auditorium, St Antony's College

10-12:30 Morning Session

Richard Parkinson: Welcome and Introduction

Renee Friedman: Beverages of Power: The contribution of Hierakonpolis

Wouter Claes: The settlement of Elkab: results of recent fieldwork

Liam McNamara: 'Holy rubbish'? Human statuettes from the Hierakonpolis Main Deposit

Vivian Davies: Elkab & Hierakonpolis: tombs of the Second Intermediate Period & the artist Sedjemnetjeru

Aaron De Souza: Nubians, Nubians Everywhere!

12:30-2:00 Lunch (make own arrangements)

2-5:00 Afternoon Session

Greg Maroud: Preliminary results from the newly discovered early New Kingdom elite quarter at Tell Edfu

Susanne Woodhouse: The figural graffiti of Tomb 3 in Hagr Edfu

Rob Demaree: Pious visitors, tourists or vandals?

Ellen Jones: Family Portraits: Exploring the representation of female relatives in the Elkab necropolis

Jordan Miller: Composite snakes in second millennium iconographies: Amduat, apotropaic wands, and the Book of Two Ways

Luigi Prada: Late & Graeco-Roman graffiti from Elkab: 'Informal Writings' contributing to the history of a site.

Luigi Prada and Susanne Woodhouse: A tomb from the reign of Ptolemy III in the main necropolis of Elkab

6PM Doors open at Ashmolean Museum

6:30-7:30 Special evening lecture, Randolph Sculpture Gallery, Ashmolean Museum

Dr Nadine Moeller, Director of Tell Edfu Project, University of Chicago

New insights into relations between center and periphery: The evolution of the administrative quarter at Edfu from the Old Kingdom to the Second Intermediate Period

7:30-9PM Reception, Atrium, Ashmolean Museum

Friday July 19, 2019 : 10AM-12:30 PM Additional activities including small group tours of the Griffith Institute Archives, the Peet Egyptological Library at the Queen's College, the Sackler Library Rare Books Room and object handling sessions in the Ashmolean Museum (choice of two activities, sign up at colloquium registration).

Full Price Ticket: £65 Members Price: £55

Get tickets online at <https://www.ashmolean.org/events>